Tom Selleck

Tom Selleck was born in Detroit, Michigan. The family moved to Sherman Oaks, California, during Selleck's childhood, where Tom excelled as a pitcher in a local Babe Ruth league.

A talented collegiate athlete, Selleck supported himself as a model, winning small parts in films and television during the 1970s. He received his big break in 1979 when he was cast in the starring role of CBS' detective series, Magnum PI. The top-rated show earned Selleck an Emmy and a Golden Globe, and he continued with the role for eight years.

Selleck has appeared in more than fifty film and television roles since his initial success with Magnum Pi, including a co-starring role in the highest grossing movie of 1987, Three Men and a Baby; Quigley Down Under; Mr. Baseball; and Lassiter, to name a few.
